Pandora's Box (John Collett 1995)

This book is about free trade and its impact on education in Canada, and is highly recommended reading for those interested in the issues presented. The book focuses on the free trade agreement between Canada and the United States, which has been criticized by many as detrimental to education in Canada. The author provides a clear and concise overview of the history of free trade agreements, and the impact they have had on education in the country. The book is highly recommended for those interested in the issues presented.

The Impact of NAFTA on the Public Sector (United States, Congress, Comrades; Consideration of implications; Legislation and Federal Budgets)

Against Market forces (Robert Beyer 2000-08-15)

This work倡导s the globe that globalization threatens the future and aims at determining national policy. It is an examination of the fundamental differences in competitiveness and market power in increasingly interdependent world. Despite this increased competition, the author argues that national policies are guided by a number of objectives and alternative options that governments face.

Women and the Canadian Nationalist Patriotic Politics (Michael F. Enright 1987-11-01)

Explanations of how and why women are affected by changes to policy and programming, but how they can take on an activist role in changing these changes.

Children’s Concord: James Tuck (1998)

The quality of education offered by Canadian universities and colleges should ideally improve, along with access to Post-graduate institutions. By the mid-1970s, there were new ideas. As a result, the concord is outlined.\n
New Compendium of Canadian Studies (Stephanie H. D. 1999)

This is an examination of the fundamental differences in competitiveness and market power in increasingly interdependent world. Despite this increased competition, the author argues that national policies are guided by a number of objectives and alternative options that governments face.

Controlling the Child (Robert Y. 1999)

The book discusses the importance of understanding children's development within a social context. It examines the psychological and social factors that influence children's development. The book is highly recommended for those interested in the issues presented.

Globalization and Liberalization (2014-08-01)

We examine the dilemma of African-Canadian students who lose interest and leave school. The book discusses the importance of understanding the factors that contribute to this phenomenon. It is highly recommended for those interested in the issues presented.

Schools of Today. Schools of Tomorrow. (U. 1997-01-01)

This work investigates the factors that contribute to the high drop-out rate among African-Canadian students. It examines the role of schools in shaping students' attitudes and behaviors. The book is highly recommended for those interested in the issues presented.

Canada. Trade, Liberalization, and Higher Education in North America (Dana-Farber Cancer Institute 2004-03-04)

This book is highly recommended for those interested in the issues presented.

Reconstructing the School (Rhode Island School of Design 2010)

This book is highly recommended for those interested in the issues presented.

Education in the 21st Century: A Global Overview (Richard J. 2000-11-01)

This book is highly recommended for those interested in the issues presented.

This book is highly recommended for those interested in the issues presented.

The Political Economy of Education in Alberta (Peter B. 2001-11-01)

This book is highly recommended for those interested in the issues presented.

The History of Education in Canada (Vanier Institute of the Family)

This book is highly recommended for those interested in the issues presented.