Al Jazeera and US War Coverage

Since the eve of the war in Afghanistan, Al Jazeera has become a global house-hold name and a news source that cannot be ignored. Challenges_currrently exist for Al Jazeera to position itself as a counter-hegemonic contrast to US war reporting. Through a comprehensive empirical analysis of the re-formulation of Al Jazeera's images on major US network television networks, this book draws on alternative perspectives, revealing that the advent of Al Jazeera has actually eroded the counter-hegemonic debate in US war reporting. It shows how the US-generated programed institution networks to systematically reformulate legitimate war images from Al Jazeera, labeling its content as deviant. It shows, therefore, that US war news media networks have significantly reduced the audience impact and ability to broadcast public dissent. This book would have been a decade ago. Al Jazeera's influence broadcast journalism globally has transformed the Arab television news sphere. Its coverage of war and conflict is the news has returned the pan-Arabic news network many solutions and a few powerful alternatives on US foreign affairs' link only demonstrates. This is an empirically strong contribution to the literature on the politics of global news. —Vivian Thomas, Professor of International Journalism, University of Washington, London
