Central European Jewish Exiles and the Shaping of Postwar Culture: Studies in Memory of Lilian Furst (1831-2009) Julia Meil 2018-10-08 This book is a printed edition of the Special Issue “Between Religion and Ethnicity: Twentieth-Century Jewish Exiles and the Shaping of Postwar Culture” that was published in Religions

Jewish Exiles and European Thought during the Third Reich David Weinsten 2017-06-30 Hans Baron, Karl Popper, Leo Strauss and Erich Auerbach were among the many German-speaking Jewish intellectuals who fled Continental Europe with the rise of Nazism in the 1930s. Their scholarship, though not normally considered together, is studied here to demonstrate how, despite their different disciplines and distinctive modes of working, they responded polemically in the guise of traditional scholarship to their shared trauma. For each, the political calamity of European fascism was a profound intellectual crisis, requiring an intellectual response which Weinsten and Zakai now contextualize, ideologically and politically. They exemplify just how extensively, and sometimes how subtly, 1930s and 1940s scholarship was used not only to explain, but to fight the political evils that had infected modernity, victimizing so many. An original perspective on a popular area of research, this book draws upon a mass of secondary literature to provide an innovative and valuable contribution to twentieth-century intellectual history.

Against the Third Reich-Paul Tillich 1998-01-01. Paul Tillich, one of the greatest Protestant theologians of modern times, wrote more than one hundred radio addresses that were broadcast into Nazi Germany from March 1942 through May 1944. The broadcasts were passionate and political—urging Germans to recognize the inadequacy of modernity and their own role in the history of Europe. The address was an attempt to make God present in the present, to express God’s will in the world, and to describe how the world should be reconstructed so as to be consistent with God’s will. This new collection of Tillich’s addresses, which are not available elsewhere, provides a unique window into the mind of a great thinker and the politics of his time.

Summer Sermons, Winter Thoughts Peter C. Hodgson 2018-05-31 The “summer sermons” have been delivered in the Presbyterian Church of Eagles Mere, Pennsylvania, over a period of fifteen years. When someone first arrives in Eagles Mere for the summer, they ask how their “winter” has been—winter meaning Nashville, Tennessee, where he has lived since 1965 when he joined the faculty of Vanderbilt Divinity School, retiring after thirty-eight years. “Winter Thoughts” consists of autobiographical reflections on three topics: lives, theologies, and politics. The lives are those of Peter and Eva Hodgson. The longest section, “Theologies,” describes the various influences and directions the author’s work has taken in systematic and historical theology. “Politics” reflects on the decline of the liberal democratic consensus. The whole is loosely held together by an underlying question: How is God efficaciously present in history without violating the fabric of history?

But God-Boris Sutton 2020-03-26 My visions and my dreams started at a young age, but I didn’t know how to handle such precious gift and was blinded by deception. Struggles will come mixed with trouble, But God assured His presence through my visions and my dreams and my life experiences. God has an answer for me and for you if we learn to trust Him. Trust in His Word and hide it in your heart. Keep your heart with all diligence for out of it are the issues of life. (Prov. 4:23, KJV) We are to create and to become builders. My faith walk passed through some dark times in my life, and no one was there. But God delivered me from test and trials and being shot at with fiery darts. God was there. I found my safe place in God, peace in God. When everything seems to be going wrong in your life, “But God.”

Happy about My Christian Faith Don Huntington 2007-01-01 We discover life as much with our hearts as with our heads. Personal experiences, relationships, and stories provide more effective media for investigating spiritual realities than any essay or scholarly treatise. That is precisely the gift that the ten contributors in this book have shared. Five of these contributors discuss how they have used faith to help others while five discuss how they have used faith to help themselves. HELPING OTHERS: Many of us wish that we could lead lives of service, and would prefer one day to leave the world a better place because we were in it. Perhaps reading the accounts of these peoples faith and service to others will open a place in your heart to follow suit. HELPING THEMSELVES: Many of us are on a quest for personal redemption. Abuse, compulsive behaviors, trauma, bad parenting, peer pressure, fear of death and a thousand other social pressures serve as albatrosses around our necks. The concluding chapters describe how five individuals discovered upward pathways towards the light through dark forces and circumstances in their lives. This is absolutely one book you must read. It will make you laugh, it will make your cry, it will give you inspiration.
